QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

New questions:

78. What is the make and model year of the automobile depicted on Monaco 365? What is the Scottish scene on the same stamp?
79. What building in Munich is shown on Monaco 41l?
80. What building in Stockholm is depicted on Monaco 483?
81. What building in Oslo is shown on Monaco 483?
82. What were the official standings in the Central American and Caribbean Soccer Games of 1946 (Costa Rica C121-24)?

Answers--none available. What's the trouble, SPI? Don't we know or don't we care?

Case 3: The Case of the Runner Forerunner

Perhaps the answers to Case 3 are readily available somewhere among the collectors of Israel stamps. Certainly much investigation has been in this area; however, I have selected this particular item as one of the "Dirty Dozen" because it is unknown to many collectors.

Ira Seebacher, in his "Handbook of Sports Stamps", details the background. The British were to remain in Palestine until May 15, 1948, at which time (May 16th with the founding of the new government) the Hebrew Post would commence operations. But the British began to pull out beginning in April, closing various post offices at various dates, claiming that the U. N. Commission for Palestine had failed to issue a directive providing for the acceptance of responsibility for the continuance of postal services. The National Council (of Israel) immediately ordered all postal employees not only to commence operations on May 16th, but to use various labels with overprints as stamps. It is these overprinted labels which were used during the interim period to which I now refer.

At this particular time a money-raising project by the Jewish National Fund (K.K.L.) was the sale of labels with various portraits and topics. One set of three showed an aerial view of a stadium. No denominations were indicated at first, but the set was re-issued with the values indicated. Another set of three (or four if we count the one that was issued on white paper also) depicted a runner and soldiers. These were on a yellowish paper and were in a horizontal format.

The third set, in a vertical format, depicted a group of five runners beneath a hand holding a large wreath in which is the Star of David. It is this set which was authorized to be used during the provisional period.

The authorized labels were to be overprinted at the post offices with the Hebrew word for "Posts" ("Doar") in Hebraic letters. As Mr. Seebacher so graphically puts it: "These overprints were put on by inexperienced youngsters, Hastily enlisted for the task and, as might be expected, the work was not done very exactly. A great number of poorly inked specimens exist, as well as inverted, double, and other varieties". The labels were used in Haifa and Tel Aviv.

The questions that keep nagging at the back of my mind are these:

1. These overprinted labels were issued with the sanction of the government. They did carry mail. As "Seebacher" says, "... for the fifteen days of their use, (the labels were) most definitely given the status of stamps by the interim authorities." Why, then, should they be classed as semi-official stamps or merely as labels? Shouldn't they definitely have status as stamps?
2. Can the exact first day of issue be determined for each city? "Seebacher" has May 1, 1948, for the first day for the runners. "Landmans" has May 2nd. I have a registered cover from Haifa, which has on it the runner's stamp and four other overprinted labels, all of which are different. The sender of the letter has penned in a neat hand in the lower left corner "First Day Cover 3.5.1948". Could this possibly indicate first day for one of the other labels?
3. Were these overprinted labels valid only until May 15th? "Schmidt-Schneider" indicates that they were issued in Jerusalem until May 31st.
4. What was the postal rate at this time? The cover mentioned above with the five stamps carried a total of forty mills. It is registered in Haifa to an address in Haifa and almost appears to be a philatelic cover. Another apparently philatelic cover has a block of four of the runners; this comes to forty mills also. Was the block necessary or did a collector prepare the cover?
5. The Mosden catalogue lists all three values of the overprinted labels as having been used. "Seebacher" agrees with these, plus the other varieties he has seen. Why do "Landmans" and "Schmidt-Schneider" list only the ten mills label, green, and not the one mill (blue) or the five mill (brown)?
6. Who was the designer, who was the engraver, and who printed these labels?

I am certain that many experts can clarify these problems. It would also be helpful if someone would write an article with drawings of the overprints so that we might be on the lookout for forgeries, for as "Seebacher" says, "...the forgeries are quite dangerous". This interim, provisional, semi-official forerunner--call it what you will--provides an intriguing case for those who like to solve mysteries.

SERVICES

Black blots on sports issues. It was too good to last! John La Porta informs us that "The American Philatelist" has black-blotted Hungary's imperforate set of nine stamps and its imperforate souvenir sheet, all honoring the recently concluded World Soccer Championship in London. The reasons for the censure are a limited printing and oddities intentionally included with the issue.

ATA loses another strong unit. Veteran SPI members, especially those who were with us when we functioned as the Sports Unit of the ATA, will be interested in knowing that the Fine Arts Unit, one of the very best and strongest in the ATA program, has severed relations with Husak and Company and accepted a charter as a non-profit corporation in the State of Pennsylvania. The Fine Arts Philatelists, as the group is now known, is a little larger than Sports Philatelists International and has a little larger group of really dedicated volunteer workers. Congratulations, FAP, on your seeing the light! We wish you every success as an independent organization.

Lions International album pages now available. Those of you who may be members of Lions International or may have started a topical collection in this area should know that K-Line Publishing, Inc., has prepared a set of album pages for this topic, beginning with Cuba's 1940 issue. Supplements will be published annually or as needed. The set retails for $2.00 plus 30¢ postage for mail orders. The typical K-Line high quality prevails. Lions International celebrates its fiftieth anniversary in 1967 so the prospect for additional issues is good.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

In rounding into shape for publication in "JSP" the 1965 supplement to my check-list of sports and active recreation, I have had occasion to look over the 1965 issues in those areas. Two sets stand out as the most interesting, not the most attractive, the best designs and engraving, or the most significant, but the most interesting because something about them caught my particular fancy at that particular time.

Uruguay's belated set honoring the 18th Olympic Games in Tokyo depicts nine different popular sports, individual, dual, and team. But in each design not only the sport in action is depicted, but also the facility in which it is played is depicted separately. This makes an interesting combination.

The second set to catch my eye is the Sharjah issue commemorating the Fourth Pan-Arab Games. You may not like the conditions under which these stamps are produced and sold, but you must give credit for something slightly new in design. Four of the five stamps of this set depict individual sports from track and field, but they go one step farther to display three separate action sketches of the same event. Thus we catch a high jumper at three different stages of his jump. To one who appreciates the skill of the particular event this is most interesting.

To date American football has never been truly depicted on stamps. In 1964 Ajman did manage to display the late President Kennedy as a boy in football uniform, but the design was incidental to the memorial set. Now news has reached us via Mrs. Jean Mahon (SPI 646) that Mexico's 1966 pre-Olympic set will include American football. The story goes that the set was to reproduce sketches from the mural on the facade of the Olympic Stadium of the National University in Mexico City; only four of the designs are appropriate for Olympic illustration, so American football has been added to complete the five-stamp set. Let us hope that there has been no mix-up in nomenclature, but rather that our own game is truly due for depiction.

SALES DEPARTMENT NEWS

By the end of September nearly all the sales books on hand will have been retired. New material is almost desperately needed if this service is to be continued for our members. Both seller and buyer stand to gain in each transaction. Everything except perhaps seals and labels has been selling very, very well. Send your duplicate material to John La Porta, 1413 S. 58th Court, Cicero, Ill. 60650. If you need information on this service, John has an information sheet which is your's for the asking.

Another year is starting for SPI, with a new slate of officers and a lot of new things on the agenda. The first will be a revised Membership Directory, with panels of experts in various fields of sports and Olympic collecting, as well as a full translation panel.

Next a complete index of past issues of "JSP" will be printed; this should be a great help when one is looking for write-up material.

SPI will sponsor trophies in regional stamp shows during 1966-67. Plans have been made to give a trophy for the best sports exhibit in SESCO in California in October, 1966, and in SOJEX in New Jersey in April, 1967. If any of our members know of other regional shows which might be interested, please contact me and the Board of Directors will make arrangements for sponsoring a trophy.

We have a fine new Publicity Chairman, Joe Schirmer, who will be glad to receive any news of our members. The more SPI accomplishes, the more reason for publicity--and publicity brings new members.

If anyone has any suggestions, I will be glad to receive them and give them careful attention. A great many of you have had letters from me, asking for help in various fields, and the results have been wonderful. Thanks to all of you--let's keep up the good work and have a banner year.

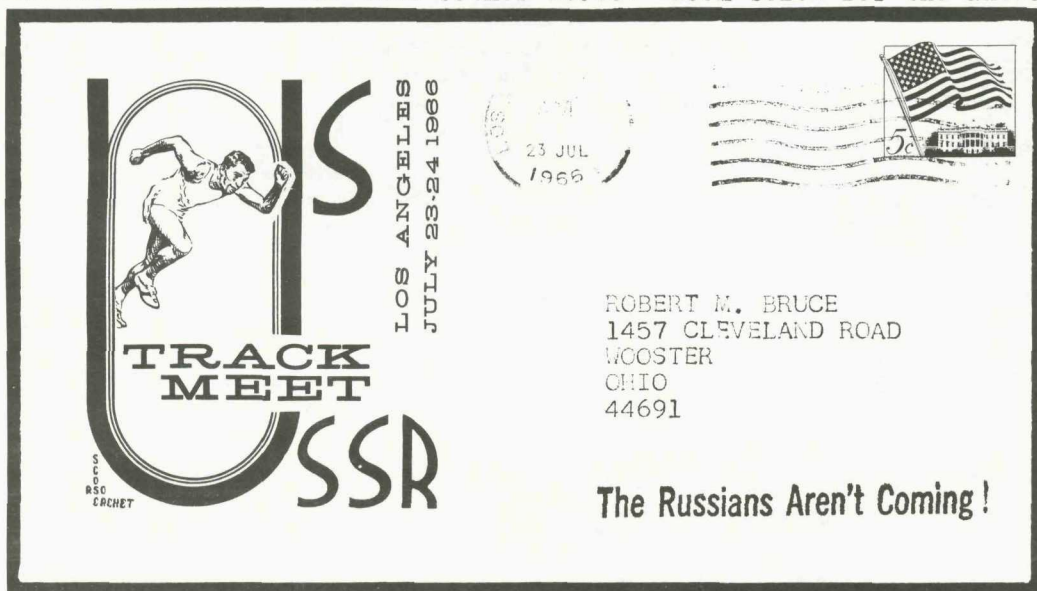

NEWS OF OUR MEMBERS AND AFFILIATES

Financial support advocated for U. S. Olympic teams. David C. Johnson (SPI 619) has commented on a proposed plan to support future Olympic teams from this country through the issuance of a semi-postal set. For example, a five-cent stamp might have a surcharge of five cents which would be turned over to the U. S. Olympic Committee for financial support of the 1968 Olympic team. Dave reports that Congresswoman Edith Green has introduced into the House of Representatives suitable legislation to authorize the issue of such a stamp.

There is no question but that the support of our Olympic competitors causes a flurry of financial solicitation just prior to each Olympic competition. If you favor this method of support for our teams, watch for news of this legislation and give it your support.

Stay loose, SCOSC! The July issue of "JSP" illustrated the cover and cachet which our friends of the Sports Collectors of Southern California had prepared for use in connection with the U. S.--U. S. S. R. track meet scheduled for Los Angeles on July 23rd. When the Russian teams realized that they would take a solid whipping (certainly the men and possibly also the women), they used the renewed U. S. bombing of North Viet Nam as an excuse to call off the meet. Did that bother SCOSC? Look below for the answer:

Travis does it again! Reports of the 70th convention of the Texas Philatelic Association indicate that Travis Land (SPI 3) was right in the midst of things, serving as master of ceremonies for the awards banquet. Travis also retained his position as a director of the TPA. We would like to hear more from him, particularly in the way of contributions to "JSP".

PHILATELIC MARKET REPORT

- Fred Farr -

Russia 1617-18. These two highly attractive stamps depict ice skaters and cross-country skiers. Available for about 40¢ as a new issue, the price had risen to 85¢ in 1961 and $1.05 in 1964. Today this set will cost you $1.25 in New York, although dealers in London ask $1.75 and Parisian dealers get $1.80. Wholesale stocks of mint sets are non-existent.

"Michel" quotes a mint set for $4.00, although "Scott" lists only $2.35. The disparity between used sets is even greater--"Michel", $1.25; "Scott", 30¢. All told, this set should increase slowly in value over the years, but I don't foresee any sudden big jumps in price. However, you should pick up a mint set while it is still selling at the $1.25 price.

Russia 1710-17. These eight sports stamps are larger than most Soviet commemoratives and depict sportsmen engaged in both winter and summer sporting activities. These stamps have never been very plentiful on the American market, as is reflected in the current retail price of $3.50, up from $2.25 in 1962. They are still a good purchase at this price, because European dealers ask more.

"Michel" quotes this set for $10.00 and "Scott" values it at $7.00. Used sets are quite scarce and "Michel's" valuation of $3.00 is much more realistic than "Scott's" quotation of 85¢. However, the mint set is the better purchase.

Russia 1789-91. Racing fans will love these stamps because two denominations depict a race horse and the third value shows a trotter. Issued to honor the International Horse Races in Moscow in 1955, this set is available for $1.00 in New York, up from its price of 70¢ just a few years ago. This is about one-half the price quoted in Europe today, where dealers ask $1.80 and up for a mint set. Wholesalers have no stocks for sale, so the price can only go upwards.

"Michel" quotes at $4.40 mint, although "Scott" states only $2.05. Once again the disparity for a used set is even greater--"Michel", $1.10; "Scott", 19¢. However, as always, the mint is preferable for the long pull.

Russia 1793. It would be easy to overlook this stamp because it depicts a badge with a running athlete, yet the athlete is so small that you might not see him. Issued in honor of the Fifth All-Union (National) Spartacist Games, held in Moscow in August, 1955, this stamp will hardly win any prizes for beauty.

With a face value of 25¢, this stamp is still available for 35¢ retail and 30¢ wholesale. Obviously the retail price must advance to 45¢ or more if the dealer is to make a profit. European dealers ask 70¢ and up for this stamp, so here is your chance to pick up an item worth about twice its current retail price. However, this stamp is highly unlikely to become blue chip material, although it is nice to buy anything which is obviously undervalued on today's market.

Russia 1963-67. Here is a really attractive set of five diamond-shaped commemoratives, depicting a gymnast, wrestlers, a stadium and sprinters, a javelin thrower, and athletes of three races. This set was issued in honor of the Third International Sports Championships for Youth, held in Moscow during the summer of 1957. It retails at 75¢ on the American market, although French dealers ask $1.30 for their sets. The 75¢ retail value is virtually unchanged from the new issue price when this set first appeared some nine years ago. Wholesalers still have a small stock, which they offer at about 65¢ a set. Obviously the set will never be any cheaper and the small floating stock held by wholesalers must soon be exhausted, with commensurate higher retail prices.

Russia 1968-73. These six beautiful stamps honor the Soviet athletes who won gold medals at the Olympic Games held in Melbourne in 1956. Every collector of Olympiana will have to own this set and the colors and designs are attractive enough to appeal to any collector. Available on the American retail market for $1.00, this set sells for $1.80 in Europe. Wholesale stocks have long since been dispersed, so the retail price has risen from 60¢ just a few years ago. It is a fine purchase at today's quotation, if you still need this set.

Russia 2072-73. Soccer is the world sport, so any stamps depicting this sport are bound to be popular. Issued to honor the 6th World Cup, held in Stockholm during June of 1958, these stamps show soccer players before a large globe of the world. Retail prices in the United States are only 30¢ for a mint set, which is less than the 32¢ charged by the New York wholesalers. European dealers, however, charge 70¢, which is more than twice the American retail price. If you want to buy for less than wholesale and at less than one-half what it is selling for in Europe, then this set is just the one for you.

Russia 2075-76. These two attractive stamps honor the 14th World Gymnastic Championships, held in Moscow during July, 1958. Currently retailing at 30¢ in New York, this price has remained unchanged from the time of issuance, due to the wholesale stocks which are still offered at 26¢ a set. Once this wholesale stock is liquidated, the price will inevitably register a modest gain. Indeed, European dealers ask 55¢ to 60¢, which is just twice the current American retail price. At the current modest price, you have nothing to lose by buying a set if you still need these stamps.
